

Legal Notice

Terms of Use and Conditions of this Website

Intellectual Property Rights

- The Xunta de Galicia is the owner of the internet domain name of second level xunta.es.
- The intellectual property rights and elements of this website are property of the Galician Autonomous Region Administration.
- This website aims at foster the citizenship access to the information related to the initiatives and services of the Xunta de Galicia, facilitating thus their relationship with the Galician Autonomous Region Administration.

Warranty Disclaimer

- The content provided through this website is issued with effects that are simply informative and does not replace the legal advertising of the laws, regulations and other acts that have to be formally published in the DOG and other official bulletins. Although it will make efforts so that the information is accurate and up to date, the Galician Regional Government does not guarantee the lack of mistakes in the content of this website, nor that is it completely updated. Only the texts published in the printed editions of DOG or other official bulletins have authentic character and official validity.
- The Galician Regional Government is not liable for damages and losses that could cause the illegitimate use or inadequacy of tools and information contained in this website, with the exception of all those proceedings resulting from the implementation of the laws to be subject to strict exercise of its powers.
- The Administration of the Autonomous Region of Galicia assumes no responsibility arising from the connection or from the contents of the links to external sites which are mentioned in this website.
- The Galician Regional Government reserves for itself the power to make, at any time and without the need to notice, modifications and upgrades on the information contained or in its configuration or presentation.

Reproduction

- The reproduction of the contents contained in this website is permitted, provided that the original source is quoted or after applying for approval. Users agree to use this website exclusively for personal use.

E-mail Mailbox

- The Xunta de Galicia is not responsible for the replies that are made through the different e-mail addresses appearing in this portal, except for those ones belonging to its own department. The information obtained through the e-mail boxes that appear in this website is merely informative, and no binding effect can be derived from it.

Service

- Is intended to minimize the service interruptions and problems caused by technical errors. Do not expect any responsibility for the interruptions or shortcomings in the service, nor of the problems that may result from the visit to this website.

Access Recommendations

- The Galician Regional Government, Xunta de Galicia, seeks to ensure that the presentation of all the content and functionality of this website is independent of the physical devices and the web browsers that are used to that end, encoded with technical standards of free use, and accessible for browsers adapted to people with disabilities or with sensory, motor or cognitive limitations.
- Is recommended to use browsers of recent version such as Firefox, Opera, Safari, Internet Explorer, etc.
- It is recommended to use screen resolutions of 1024 x 768 pixels or higher in desktops of common use.

Terms of Use

- It is prohibited to send unsolicited bulk mail or unsolicited correspondence (SPAM) led to email accounts used in this website.
- It is prohibited to use this website commercially or inappropriately regarding its own purpose.
- You may not have access to this website to harm, deteriorate, put it out of action or overcharge services for information provided.

Privacy

- The privacy policy of the Xunta de Galica is based on requesting only those personal details that are strictly necessary to provide users with the services of this website.
- The treatment of personal details to be carried out through this website is subject to the Organic Law 15/1999, dealing with personal details protection, and the rest of the implementing regulations. The data to be collected are to be moved computationally or be filed with the consent of the citizen, who has the right to decide who may have its data, for whoever uses them, request that these are accurate and which are used for the purpose for which are collected, with the exceptions in the current legislation.